The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-5, 7, 9, 10, 12-19, 21-24, 26, 28, 29, and 31-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Blackstock et al (US 3689290).

Blackstock et al teach a cheese substitute and process for preparing comprising a bland edible particulate, a vegetable fat component, a salt component, and parmesan flavor as is claimed (see entire patent, especially column 2, lines 6-61 and Examples 1 and 2).

The claims appear to differ as to the recitation of "non-liquid."

Blackstock et al teach any suitable fat including hydrogenated fats (see column 2, lines 46-55).

The non-liquid limitation would be inherent and/or obvious to that of Blackstock et al as the same components are used.

It is noted that the degree of hydrogenation plays a role in the hardness/softness of a fat.

Claims 6, 8, 11, 25, 27, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Blackstock et al (US 3689290) in view of JP 03067544 and GB 1601672.

Blackstock et al is cited as above.

The claims differ as to the specific use of soy flour and palm oil.

JP 03067544 discloses the conventional use of soy in the flour form for the production of a cheese-type product (see abstract).

GB 1601672 discloses the conventional use of palm oil in the production of cheese-type product (see entire document, especially page 3, lines 52-61).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to use flour as taught by JP 03067544 and to use palm oil as taught by GB 1601672 in that of Blackstock et al because the use of flour as a source of soy and the use of palm oil is conventional in the simulated cheese art.

Applicant is using known components for their art-recognized function to obtain no more than expected results.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
